

HISTORIC LANDMARK REVIEWS

Tualatin's historic landmark designations are intended to preserve, protect, maintain, and enhance landmark resources that represent or reflect elements of the City's cultural, social, economic, political, and architectural history. A land use review is required when a property owner desires to change a resource designation, modify an existing resource, or demolish or relocate a resource. The land use review requirements are further described in Tualatin Development Code (TDC) Chapter 68 Historic Preservation. A designated landmark list is located in TDC 68.040(4).

TYPE II: Landmark Alteration Permits, Landmark Demolition Permits, and Landmark Relocation Permits are subject to a Type II land use review, except where the resource is also a National Register Resource which would require a Type IV-A review. Type II decisions are decided by staff and require public notice, with an opportunity for appeal to City Council.

TYPE IV: Applying for or removing a historic landmark designation or the demolition or relocation of a resource listed as a National Register Resource is subject to a Type IV review. Type IV-A decisions are quasi-judicial decisions made by Tualatin City Council after a public hearing.
